PREFACE

The National Education Code (NEC) serves as a platform to provide a coding system that will enable accurate tracking, assessment and reporting of the education and training programmes as well as programme registrations in Malaysia. It will also further facilitate the statistical reporting at international level, as well as accelerate the process of data integration more effectively towards big data for the education sector to ensure data quality in meeting the needs of international standards.

The Ministry of Higher Education (MoHE) as the leader for higher education in Malaysia that formulates policies on the development of National education, has established the National Education Code (NEC-2020) based on the ISCED Fields of Education and Training 2013 (ISCED-F 2013) produced by United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). The NEC-2020 is the latest revised edition and supersedes the previous NEC 2010 edition. This is in line with the latest changes to the code framework set by UNESCO and adopted as a reference in the international reporting standards.

The review and development of the NEC-2020 was undertaken in collaboration with representatives from the Ministries/ agencies as well as other stakeholders through a series of workshops and discussions to enable all the detail fields to be included. Hence, the Division expresses its appreciation for the cooperation of all parties who have contributed to the success of the publication of NEC-2020.

FOREWORD

Minister of Higher Education

DATUK SERI DR. NORAINI AHMAD

Rapid technological change and Industry 4.0 have brought changes to the education and training field. This can be seen through the existence of new areas such as the internet of things and gaming technology to encounter the current scenario and industries' need. Thus, MoHE has taken the initiative to review the existing education and training code with some improvement to the programme content, based on international standards for new programmes, especially hybrid or interdisciplinary programmes that can be mapped accurately. This is in line with international standard revision on the field of education and training entitled ISCED F-2013.

In this regards, National Education Code 2020 (NEC-2020) will be the main framework for standard reference code in education and training field. NEC-2020 was developed based on international standards issued by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) as the international agency responsible for collecting, compiling, and analysing comparative statistics amongst countries on educational attainment through the International Standard Classification of Education 97 (ISCED-97).

I hope that the National Education Code (NEC-2020) will be used as a guideline and reference by relevant Ministries and Agencies in classifying the fields of study by using the same reference and standard to facilitate the reporting of education and training statistics in Malaysia. We are optimistic this effort will help to produce and equip our generation with high quality education as well as necessary skills to strive in the job market.

FOREWORD

Secretary General Ministry of Higher Education

DATUK SERI DR. MAZLAN YUSOFF

All praises to Allah, the Merciful, the All – Beneficent, by whose Grace and Blessings has enabled the Ministry of Higher Education to successfully publish the National Education Code (NEC-2020). NEC is a classification code for education and training developed to facilitate the collection and reporting of data using the same standard in line with the international reporting. The NEC-2020 will supersede the existing manual which has been in use since 2010.

The establishment of NEC-2020 is based on collaborative efforts with the academic experts, professional bodies, as well as Ministries and Agencies that offer education and training in Malaysia. In this publication, initiatives have been taken to map NEC-2020 with Malaysia Standard Classification of Occupation (MASCO) to facilitate our students/ graduates, academia as well as industries in terms of job matching through various programmes and employments.

It is hoped that the NEC-2020 will be used as a guideline and reference in analysing data based on standard definition and coding to support big data initiative at national level. I believe the NEC-2020 will be extremely useful and beneficial to all relevant Ministries and Agencies in producing holistic and balanced graduates.

In conclusion, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to all parties involved for all their hard work in ensuring the success of this publication.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE NATIONAL EDUCATION CODE 2020 (NEC-2020)

ESTABLISHMENT OF NATIONAL EDUCATION CODE 2020 (NEC-2020)

1. Background

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) as an international agency which is responsible for collecting, compiling and analysing cross-national comparable statistics on educational attainment has issued the International Standard Classification of Education (ISCED) 1997 as a standard classification of levels and fields of study to facilitate the statistical reporting by all countries. In 2010, the Inter-Agency Technical Committee (IATC) has given mandate to the Ministry of Higher Education (MoHE) to establish the standard code for education and training in Malaysia. The National Education Code (NEC) was published by MoHE in 2010 and used as a standard code in classifying the field of education and training until now.

In 2014, UNESCO had revised the previous version and published ISCED-F 2013 to improve the new field of study classification. Accordingly, MoHE has revised the current NEC based on ISCED 1997 and adopted the framework and fundamental principles mentioned in ISCED-F 2013. This NEC-2020 is the latest revised edition and supersedes the previous NEC. It is in line with the latest changes on framework code has set by UNESCO and used as a reference in international reporting standards.

The establishment of NEC-2020 has been implemented by MoHE in collaboration with the Malaysian Qualifications Agency (MQA), Professional Bodies, Council of Deans of Public University, Public University, selected Private Higher Education Institutions, training and education provider such as Ministry of Education, Ministry of Health, Ministry of Human Resources, Ministry of Agriculture & Food Industries, Ministry of Youth and Sports, Ministry of Rural Development, Ministry of Housing and Local Government, Ministry of Home Affairs, Ministry of Works, Ministry of Finance, Ministry of Tourism, Arts and Culture and Jabatan Kemajuan Islam Malaysia (JAKIM). Subsequently, on 7 July 2021, through Memorandum Jemaah Menteri No. M331/ 2021, MoHE has been given the mandate to publish the National Education Code entitled National Education Code-2020 (NEC-2020) as a single reference for training and education field of study used by all education and training in Malaysia.

The rapid technological changes and era of industry 4.0 have transformed the landscape of education and training around the world. Therefore, in view that the existing national education and training code could not meet the requirements of study programmes offered by education and training institutions, ministries, and agencies, especially for postgraduate and hybrid programmes, the standardisation of training and education code is necessary. The establishment of NEC-2020 is also instigated to map with Malaysian Occupational Classification Standard Code (MASCO) to facilitate students, graduates, academia as well as industry particularly in job matching involving various programmes and employments. This NEC-2020 could also facilitate the stakeholders in reporting the statistics based on a single source of code as a standard guideline.

2. Objectives of NEC-2020 Manual

The NEC-2020 manual was established to standardise the use of education and training codes between ministries and agencies involved in education and training in Malaysia.

Thus, the NEC-2020 manual will be the source of reference for the classification of education programmes in Malaysia, in line with the International Standard Classification of Education (ISCED-F 2013) as international standard. This includes all education programmes, i.e initial and continuing education, general education and technical & vocational training.

3. Structure of the NEC-2020 Classification

- 3.1 The classification of NEC-2020 using a four-digit hierarchical structure comprising broad field (two digits), narrow field (three digits) and detailed field (four digits). The broad field has the highest levels in NEC-2020 classifying with 12 categories starting from '00' to '99'. Meanwhile, the narrow field (three digits) and detailed field (four digits) are consisting of 59 and 140 categories, respectively.

The structure for classifying the NEC-2020 from broad field to detailed field for 'Engineering, manufacturing and construction' is as follows:

Classification	Title	Code
Broad field	Engineering, manufacturing and construction	07
Narrow field	Manufacturing and processing	072
Detailed field	Food processing	0721

- 3.2 Although NEC-2020 has adopted and adapted the ISCED-2013, some enhancements have been made at the narrow field (three digits) and detailed field (four digits) to suit the field of education and training in Malaysia.
- 3.3 The differences between the NEC 2010 and NEC-2020 are shown in Table 1:

Table 1: The differences between NEC 2010 and NEC-2020

The detailed comparison of NEC 2010 with NEC-2020 is published on the MoHE website and GREaT portal to facilitate better understanding for users.

GUIDE TO USING OF THE NEC-2020

1. When classifying an educational programme or a group of programmes, look at the overview of the classification on pages 10 to 16. Start by deciding which broad field it should be classified into. Next look at the narrow fields.
2. When you have found an appropriate narrow field, check the description of the field with regard to the subject content of the field on pages 20 to 69 and see which field best corresponds to the programme (programme group) that is to be classified. You may also refer to Appendix A which list the programmes contents in numerical order.
3. Each field description has a list of main subject content of the programmes as specified in the particular field descriptions. Check the list to make sure that classifying programme is in the right code.

Inter-disciplinary, hybrid or broad programmes and qualifications

This section serves to incorporate the criteria governing the classification of programmes as regard to those programmes that have more than one field of education and training. Users are to determine the classification of the inter-disciplinary programmes and broad programmes by following the guidelines and examples given below.

1. Inter-disciplinary, hybrid or broad programmes and qualifications are those which combine several detailed fields of education and training where no single detailed field dominates. Many inter-disciplinary programmes and qualifications cover several narrow or even broad fields. In this classification, the 'leading subject rule' is used to determine the broad field into which the inter-disciplinary study should be classified. That is, the leading subject or subjects determines the (broad) field. The criterion for determining the leading subject(s) is, as before, the share of learning credits or students' intended learning time. Inter-disciplinary programmes should be classified by using '8' at the narrow and detailed field levels (i.e. xx88) within the leading broad field as 'Inter-disciplinary programmes or qualifications involving [the broad field]'. Thus, all inter-disciplinary study with no dominant subject will be separately identified and, at least, the leading broad field of the programme or qualification will be known.

Example 1: A programme consisting of equal parts (one-third each) of political sciences and public policy (0312), journalism and reporting (0321) and media and communications (0323) should be classified as 0388 ('Inter-disciplinary programmes and qualifications involving social sciences, journalism and information'). If a programme consists of 60% political sciences and public policy, 20% journalism and 20% reporting, it should be classified as 0312 as political sciences and public policy is the dominant subject.

2. Where more than one leading broad field is identified, the inter-disciplinary study should be classified in the broad field listed first in the title (or in the curriculum or syllabus if not listed in the title) of the programme or qualification. Where there is insufficient information to determine the leading subject, the 'first-listed' rule described in the previous sentence should be applied
3. Programmes or qualifications covering two or more detailed fields where one detailed field represents the predominant share of the learning credits or intended learning time should be classified in that detailed field. Thus, if the major share of learning credits or intended learning time is devoted to a single detailed field, the programme/ qualification should be classified in that detailed field and not as an inter-disciplinary programme/ qualification.

Example 2: A programme majoring in mathematics with a minor in French should be classified as 0541 'Mathematics' as it is the dominant subject.

Example 3: A programme consisting of 40% engineering and engineering trades (071), 30% business and management (041) and 30% languages (023) should be classified as 0788 ('Inter-disciplinary programmes and qualifications involving engineering, manufacturing and construction') as no field predominates but 07 is the leading broad field. If engineering and business were equally important and greater than languages (e.g. 40%, 40% and 20%), the programme would be classified as either 0788 or 0488 depending on which programme, engineering and engineering trades (071) or business and management (041), is listed first in the programme title (or, if not in the title, in the curriculum or syllabus).

Example 4: A programme consisting of 40% history and archaeology (0222), 30% economics (0311) and 30% political sciences and public policy (0312) would be classified as 0388 ('Inter-disciplinary programmes and qualifications involving social sciences, journalism and information') as economics and politics are in the same broad field.

4. Programmes and qualifications aimed at one specific vocational field consisting also of subsidiary subjects from other fields are not considered as inter-disciplinary programmes or qualifications and should be classified according to the specific vocational field.

Example 5: In a programme in electrical installation, more time may be devoted to subsidiary subjects (language, mathematics, natural sciences, etc.) than the intended vocational subject. However, this programme should be classified as 0712 'electricity and energy' and not as an inter-disciplinary programme.

5. The 'leading subject rule' is the only feasible solution for classifying inter-disciplinary programmes and qualifications as long as only one code can be assigned as is recommended in this manual.

Not further defined and not elsewhere classified

1. Two common situations need to be addressed within the classification of fields of education and training when coding programmes or qualifications in specific data collections:

- a. Cases where there is no further information about a given programme or qualification than that known at a higher level of the classification. These are known as cases which are 'not further defined' and are designated by the use of one or more '0' at the end of codes at the narrow or detailed fields hierarchical levels of the classification (as appropriate).

Example 6: A programme in education where more information is not available should be classified as 0110 'Education not further defined' (i.e. Master in Education). Such cases should not be considered as inter-disciplinary or broad programmes.

Example 7: A programme in services where more information is not available should be classified as 1000 'Services not further defined'.

- b. Cases where the particular detailed field is known and adequately described but is not explicitly provided for in the classification. These are known as cases which are 'not elsewhere classified' and are designated by the use of '9' at the detailed field level of the classification (i.e. as the last digit).

Example 8: A programme in a new field in ICTs which does not belong to any of the other detailed fields should be classified as 0619 'Information and communication technologies not elsewhere classified'.

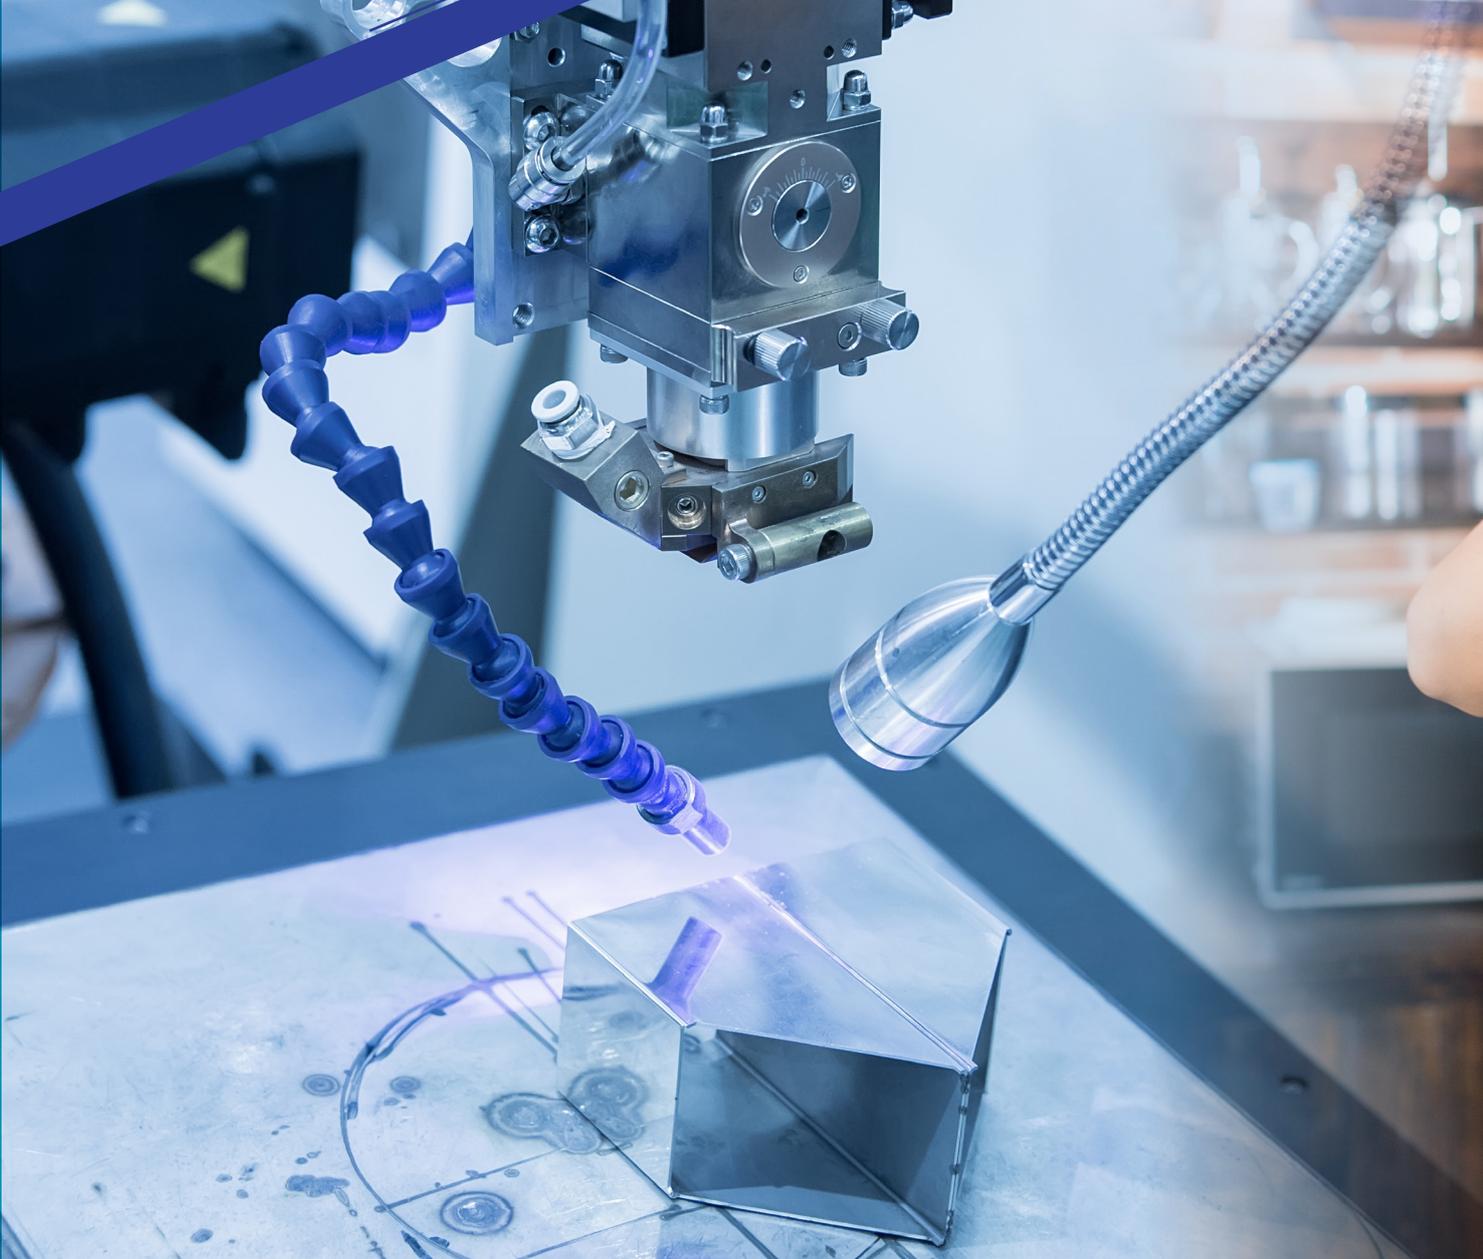

2. It can be difficult to differentiate the use of “0”, “8” and “9”. Table 1 can facilitate for better understanding.

Table 1: Supplementary codes

Code	Name	Use
0	Not further defined	No further information than is known at a higher level of the classification
8	Inter-disciplinary programmes or qualifications	Programmes or qualifications with no dominant detailed field
9	Not elsewhere classified	The detailed field is known but not provided for in the classification

3. During data collection, where the field of study is completely unknown, a code of ‘9999’ can be assigned or, in surveys which are limited to the narrow or broad field levels only, ‘999’ or ‘99’ respectively.

00 GENERIC PROGRAMMES AND QUALIFICATIONS

Generic programmes and qualifications are those providing fundamental and personal skills education which cover a broad range of subjects and do not emphasise or specialise in a particular broad or narrow field.

This broad field should not be used as a residual category. Programmes and qualifications with a specific subject emphasis should be classified in broad fields 01 to 10. Education at the tertiary level should only by way of exception be classified here.

001 Basic programmes and qualifications

0011 Basic programmes and qualifications

Basic programmes and qualifications are designed to provide participants with fundamental skills in reading, writing and arithmetic along with an elementary understanding of other subjects such as history, geography, natural science, social science, art and music, and in some cases religious instruction. These programmes and qualifications are normally offered at primary and lower secondary levels. Broad, non-specialised programmes at upper secondary level are also classified here even if there is some concentration on, for example, humanities, social science, natural science etc. Vocational programmes and qualifications are included here only by way of exception.

Programmes and qualifications with the following main subject content are classified here:

Content

Basic programmes and qualifications
 Broad, generic (non-specialised) programmes and qualifications
 General programmes and qualifications with no specific subject emphasis
 Programmes and qualifications at primary level

Inclusions

Basic programmes and qualifications at upper secondary level (in some countries at lower secondary level) with some emphasis on programme e.g. humanities, social sciences or natural sciences but still covering other fields of knowledge are included in this detailed field. In some countries such programmes or qualifications are offered on a modular basis and should also be classified here.

Exclusions

Programmes that are considered as general in the programme orientation sense (non-vocational) but have a clear emphasis on a detailed, narrow or broad field are excluded from this detailed field and included in one of the broad fields 01 to 10, depending on the subject covered.

002 Literacy and numeracy

0021 Literacy and numeracy

Literacy and numeracy are programmes or qualifications arranged mainly for adults, designed to teach fundamental skills in reading, writing and arithmetic. The typical age range of participants can be used to distinguish between detailed field 0011 'Basic programmes and qualifications' and this detailed field.

Programmes and qualifications with the following main content are classified here:

Content

Basic remedial programmes for youth or adults

Literacy

Numeracy

003 Personal skills

0031 Personal skills

Personal skills are defined by reference to the effects on the individual's capacity (mental, social etc.). This detailed field covers personal skills programmes not included in 0011 'Basic programmes and qualifications' or 0021 'Literacy and numeracy', giving key competencies and transferable skills.

Programmes and qualifications with the following main content are classified here:

Content

Argumentation and presentation

Assertiveness training

Communication skills

Co-operation

Development of behavioural capacities

Development of mental skills

Job-seeking programmes

Parenting courses

Public speaking

Self-esteem skills

Social competence

Time management
